John Deere Customer Organization Terms and Conditions

Updated: June 1, 2024

This agreement ("Agreement") governs the creation, maintenance, access to, and use of your unique John Deere Customer Organization (your "Organization"). Your Organization is a hosted account where you may collect and manage information from your operation and equipment, including machine information, job information, work plans, certain business records files, data, images, and other forms of data, information, and communications relating to your business operations (collectively, your "Content"). Your Organization also includes tools that help you define and manage your staff, business partners, equipment, jobs, and Content. Some John Deere websites, web applications, and mobile applications that you may access through your Organization are also governed by separate terms of use, license terms, cookie policies, and privacy policies.
