

NotepadOptionsHelpEXIT COURSE

PREVIEW Antitrust 2007: The Agencies & the Courts

WatchListenRead

Welcome

OutlineExhibit ListSearch

Antitrust 2007: Agencies & Courts

Complete Text

Welcome

Exhibits

- The Video Pane
- Segments
- The Outline
- The Exhibits
- Switching Between Views
- Search
- Transcript
- Progress Bar
- Additional Courseware Features [PDF]

I. Introduction

A. Speaker Introduction

B. Topic Selection

C. Antitrust Group

II. Enforcement: Cartels

A. Actions Against High-Techs

B. Guidelines

C. Oil and Airlines

III. Enforcement: Mergers

IV. Marketing and Distribution

V. Recent Supreme Court Action

A. Illinois Tool Works

Transcript

Welcome

Welcome to this Cognistar online course. Let me show you how it works. Even if you've taken a Cognistar course before, you may pick up some useful tips.

If you're currently watching the video, you'll see me in the upper left corner of the screen, called the "video pane." Above the video pane are three tabs that you can use to switch between video, audio, and text-only mode. Just click Watch, Listen or Read to change the mode. If you have a slow Internet connection, try Listen or Read mode for better performance. Some jurisdictions won't give you credit for Read mode, so check the rules for your jurisdiction.

At the bottom of the video pane are controls like those on a VCR or a CD player. You can pause, rewind, or fast-forward. There's also a volume control. Drag the "scrub bar" under the control buttons to quickly move to any part of the segment. The larger arrow buttons at the extreme right and left of the controls take you forward to the next segment or back to the previous one.

When I talk about "segments," I'm referring to the fact that the course is divided into short pieces of two to five minutes each. The course does not play through by itself. When a segment (like this one) finishes playing, you have to click the Next Segment arrow or a segment title in the outline to advance.

The outline, located below the video pane, lists all the segments of the course and shows you how it's organized. You can click on any segment in the outline to go straight to it. A large bright triangle points to the current segment, and checkmarks indicate the segments you've already viewed. Exhibits for the current segment are listed beneath the segment title. Click on any listed exhibit to see it. Some exhibits will display in the Exhibits pane on the far right. Others, such as PDF documents and Web sites, will display in a new window.

Just above the outline are three tabs: Outline, Exhibit List and Search. Click the Exhibit List tab to see a list of all the exhibits in the

Exhibits

The Exhibits

Some exhibits will display in the Exhibits pane on the far right. Others, such as PDF documents and Web sites, will display in a new window.

Exhibits

Patent Legislation Timeline: 1836

1790

1791

1792

1793

1800

1836

1870

1942

1982

After 1800, the loophole was closed but the harsh treble damage provision remained on the books.

In 1836, Congress gave courts the discretion to award some or all of the treble damages under the 1800 statute.

